Admitted to Bail.

John Goodin, the brakeman who killed Conductor John Scanlon in the caboose of a freight train between here and Lexington a short time since, was brought before the court at Lexington Monday on an application for bail. Goodin is the only man who knows what transpired, and his testimony was to the effect that Scanlon attacked him and he shot Scanlon and jumped from the train to escape from him. After argument by attorneys, Judge Parker fixed Goodin's bail at $2,500, which he gave and was released.

FACTS AND OBSERVATIONS

Two Nights in Ashland—A Boat Ride on the Sandy, Etc.

Adopting the custom of some people who leave town when Circuit Court is in session, the writer left on the first east bound train on Wednesday morning, intending, however, to return before the grand jury had closed its sittings. He expected to stop at Denton for about three hours "to see a friend" and return home on same day. The unexpected happened—the friend was away from home, at Louisville, Ky. On to Ashland to reach him by telephone. That city was not talking that day for an electric wire had fallen across the telephone in more places than one and every telephone in town was burned out. On to Catlettsburg to use phone. That line (like some others we have read about) was not in good working order and disappointment met us again. Back to Ashland to await train next day to Louisa. All things worked together for our good. The Presbytery of Ebenezer was in session in the attractive Presbyterian church. We attended. Here we met Rev. Joplin, of our city, Rev. Cheek, of Paris, Rev. Condit, of Ashland, and were introduced to Prof. James F. Record, Principal of the Pikeville school. (We could be at only one meeting of the Presbytery but by writing invited Rev. Joplin to use the columns of our paper in an account of the session of the Presbytery. We are now in Olive Hill on Saturday afternoon and presume he has accepted the invitation.)

In the evening we were pleased to meet our townsman, Henry R. Bright, who is State agent of the Germania Fire Insurance Co., who had been to Huntington, W. Va., to adjust amount of policy by his company in a $44,000 fire.

John Hazelrigg was walking with a friend on the street and probably did not see us.

James E. Thompson, representing the Climax Mill Co., was in town.

Edgar Curtis, express agent on local passenger, was on his regular run.

Go where we will we are apt to meet with friends.

We were up early as is our custom.

A mixed train does service on the Chattahoochee railroad.

Enroute to Louisa, 30 miles, we chatted with friend Thompson and made observations.

The train stopped and we walked to hotel to inquire for our friend. He had returned to Carter county on previous day.

The train was to proceed in five minutes. A decision was soon made that the regions beyond must be invaded. We hustled and swung on as the train pulled out for White House, 27 miles distant.

We had decided to revisit Paintsville, renew pleasant acquaintances and look out for business. With distinct remembrance of a rousing Pacific Democratic Congressional convention in July last, we contemplated other pleasing features of our sojourn.

We reached White House at near 11 o'clock.

The trip to Paintsville could be made either by swimming, by hack or by boat. We chose the latter. The bell tapped and off she glided.

"She" is Cando, the largest packet on the river. The day was perfect—bright, warm and cheery. The school girls have told us all about the limpid, rippling waters and silvery spray and have given us a touch of mountain scenery with crags reflected and perhaps intimated that wild ducks on swift wing added novelty to the scene.

The distance to Paintsville landing is 10 miles (the town is not on the river but on Paints Creek, 1 mile away.)

We got there—in 3 1/2 hours. The fare was 50c with or without dinner. The captain said that dinner was served to seventy-five passengers. Many raftsmen had recently come down and some were returning.

We saw the sights from stem to stern, from pilot house to engine rooms.

We declined to take a hand in "seven up" or some other up (we are not versed in gamblers' parlance, whether in the low dive or in the fashionable and well to do homes where progressive euchre exerts its seductive influence deadening to some ennobling traits.) A meat box served as table. The pile appeared to be about one dollar.

Enroute the boat stopped to take on coal. The mine is in the river bank—probably 30 feet above the water. The vein is more than three feet. We entered a short distance. We were told that the owner of the mine gets a royalty of 1/4 cent per bushel, and that the cost per bushel delivered is 4c to the boat.

Among the passengers was J. H. Forsythe, who had been to Catlettsburg to meet his wife and four children who came from the State of Iowa enroute to Pikeville, their future home. Since December 4 he has been there. His work is Sunday School evangelization of Pike county. He is sent out by the Board of Education of the Presbyterian church for the United States, having headquarters in Philadelphia.

As far as Paintsville we had the company of James Thompson. He was to proceed up the Sandy. We turned homeward on Friday morning.

In our next issue we will have other Facts and Observations at Paintsville, Ashland and Olive Hill. We reached home on Monday morning at 7:10.

To the Democracy.

Col. A. W. Hamilton has gone to Chicago to enter upon an engagement. All engagements will be canceled May 1, and Col. Hamilton will return home and be in the campaign for State Senator to its close in June. He wishes us to thank his friends for their interest in this race and to assure them of his confidence as a final winner. As there may be reports started which, uncorrected, might tend to his disadvantage in the race, he says once for all, as I have been a Democrat in the past, adhering to the great principles which are for the comfort, support and interest of the many, again to the world's greed, so I will continue to the end of my life. He urges his friends to stand as they are, firmly entrenched, to yield not one point. On his return in May the final charge will be made, when he hopes to be triumphant in victory.
